| |
|---|
| Erasmus Grotius, Kant, Gandhi, and other thinkers who believed that peace as a whole was highly valued. It develops students' critical skills and understanding necessary to translate their academic learning into specific practical situations, such as those posed by peacebuilding with the UN, governments, or NGOs. It helps to understand the complex and interconnected challenges to peace and provides knowledge to meet them. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. |

| PHIL 480 | Special Topics in Philosophy | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course provides an in-depth look at selected issues in philosophy and philosophical thinking. Through readings, research, discussion, and guest lectures, current issues related to philosophy and philosophical thinking are thoroughly explored. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. | | |

| THEA 301 | Introduction to Theatre | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course will allow students to experience the process of making theater. Its outcome is a theatrical production involving students in different roles: scriptwriters, actors, and production crew, such as house managers, designers, and operators. The work is conducted under the supervision of the course instructor. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

Social Sciences/Culture

Descriptions of elective courses that may be chosen to satisfy the Social Sciences/Culture domain are given below.

| BECN 301 | Microeconomics | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Students will study the general principles of microeconomics. Included are the theoretical constructs of consumer behavior, cost structure, and the operations of business firms in the market economy under conditions of perfect competition, oligopoly, monopoly, and monopolistic competition. Prerequisite: Junior Standing. | | |

| BECN 302 | Macroeconomics | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Students will study the general principles of macroeconomics. This course presents the formal Keynesian theory of income determination and its contemporary critiques, including the possible causes and solutions to unemployment and inflation, as well as the importance of the international economy. Government fiscal and monetary policies are examined in detail. Prerequisite: Junior Standing. | | |

| BMGT 200 | Introduction to Management | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Students study the basic functions of management and are exposed to modern management practices, current events, problem-solving, and ethical dilemmas. Topics include decision-making, strategic and operational planning, organizational structure, Human Resources management, leadership, and control techniques. The instructor facilitates discussion and integrates these topics using contemporary business issues and case studies. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| CMNS 310 | Persuasion in a Mediated World | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Through reading, writing, and speech, students will become familiar with the persuasive strategy described in Aristotle's Rhetoric and consider how to employ it in professional and personal situations, including writing, public speaking, and negotiation. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| CMNS 350 | Mass and Digital Communication Ethics | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course addresses the ethical problems in journalism, public relations, and advertising, particularly in today's digital media environment. Prerequisite: CMNS 301. | | |

| CMNS 380 | Social Media Campaigns and Strategies | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course examines the strategic uses, impacts, and implications of emerging social media and how it affects the daily lives of our society and its members. It expands the student's knowledge of social media applications in business, advertising, and public relations, as well as their use in political movements and the development of communities. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| CMNS 401 | Peace Communication: Media and Conflict Resolution | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course integrates methods, perspectives, and concepts of Peace Studies, Cultural Communication, and Peace Journalism to explain contemporary debates in the global public sphere. It considers how cultural stereotypes about ideology, religion, and culture frame Arabs and Americans in the mass media. RHU students will engage in online, asynchronous conversations with students at collaborating universities in the United States and participate in shared projects exploring the role of the media in shaping Arab-American relations. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| CMNS 410 | Public Speaking | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course is designed to provide a practical introduction to the fundamental principles of public speaking and a forum for practicing public speaking skills. Students will learn how effective speeches are conceived, prepared, and delivered through a range of instructional strategies (discussions, class workshops, readings, lectures, and presentations). Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| EDUC 210 | Educational Psychology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course draws on psychological principles, cognitive development, and learning theories applicable to teaching/learning situations. Focus areas include human growth and development, specifically adolescent development and developmentally appropriate practices, learning theory, motivation theory, instructional and college practices, individual differences, student interpersonal and group behavior, classroom management, and organization. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| EDUC 351 | Behavior Management and Motivation for Special Learners | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course provides students with practice in applying behavioral psychology techniques to modify the behavior of and motivate students with special needs. It also addresses the limits of behavior modification. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| EDUC 415 | Factors in Student Motivation | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course will examine motivational factors that influence children's learning. Topics include attribution theory, teacher influences (expectancy effects), learning structures (competitive vs. cooperative learning), family influences (the socialization of achievement), cultural influences (how cultural background impacts college performance), and individual differences (intrinsic motivation and sex differences in learning). Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| EDUC 480 | Special Topics in Education | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course provides students with advanced study on selected topics or emerging issues in Arab or international education. It is designed for seminar format, multimedia presentation, experiential learning activities, interactive assignments, and cooperative group work. Prerequisite: EDUC 201 or consent of advisor. | | |

| JRSM 210 | Arabic News Writing & Reporting | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course emphasizes defining news and its importance in a democratic society; the news-gathering process; news elements; an introduction to basic news reporting and writing for print and broadcast; the use of the Internet as a reporting and research tool; and accuracy and fairness as journalistic imperatives. Outside community research and reporting time is required. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| JRSM 240 | Media and Public Relations Writing | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This introductory-level course is designed to help students learn the formats and conventions of media and public relations writing, including newspapers, magazines, web and interactive media, advertising copy, public relations writing, and social media. It also addresses ethical issues related to writing in these fields. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| JRSM 300 | Mass Media Essentials | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course familiarizes students with concepts and terminology used in various communication fields and helps them understand the development of mass communication in political, economic, social, and cultural contexts. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| JRSM 310 | Advanced Arabic News Writing and Reporting | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course aims to provide students with the theory and practice of news story development, with special emphasis on interviewing, observation, document research, source development, and other standard reporting techniques. Students cover | | |

| |
|---|
| community beats, report on them, and write news stories from those beats, primarily in public affairs reporting. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| JRSM 320 | Media and Society | 3(3,0) |
| This course examines the relationship between the media and society, considering how each impacts the other. Students will be introduced to various theories that consider this relationship and its implications. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |
| JRSM 380 | Arab and International Media | 3(3,0) |
| This course offers students a comparative survey of international media, examining the basic principles and concepts of news and media developed in the West, as applied primarily in Arab countries. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| POSC 301 | Introduction to Political Science | 3(3,0) |
| This course aims to familiarize students with the basic concepts and disciplines of political science. It focuses on the nature of politics as a science, political ideologies, state and state-society relations, political parties, electoral systems, democracy, and international organizations. A significant emphasis is placed on students' ability to apply these concepts to the analysis of current political issues, disputes, and trends. The course combines lectures and class discussions, debates, and presentations. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| PSYC 301 | Introduction to Psychology | 3(3,0) |
| This course introduces the theories, concepts, and viewpoints of the discipline of psychology. The course is designed to help students understand human behavior by addressing topics including the history of psychology, learning, personality, motivation, perception, social psychology, mental health, and related areas. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| PSYC 302 | Social Psychology | 3(3,0) |
| This course studies the dynamics and effects of social influences on individual human behavior. In this course, students will explore topics such as attitude change, social beliefs, roles, conformity within group processes, and prejudices, with special attention to the Middle Eastern perspective. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| PSYC 303 | Psychology of Personality | 3(3,0) |
| This course presents theories of personality, including psychoanalytic, behaviorist, humanist, and others, while considering different factors that shape personality and behavior. The study includes methods of assessing personality. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| PSYC 304 | Child Psychology | 3(3,0) |
| This course will introduce students to the psychological development of children from conception to adolescence (with a focus on infancy through middle childhood). Topics, including perceptual, cognitive, personality, and social development, focus on age- | | | related issues and events that may affect individuals at different ages. Co-requisite: ENGL 210.

| PSYC 306 | Psychology of Women | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course examines the biological, sociological, and cultural influences on the psychology of women. It includes such topics as gender stereotypes, the development of gender roles, gender comparisons, women and work, love relations, women's physical and mental health, violence against women, and women in later adulthood. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 310 | Positive Psychology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course examines scientific research on happiness and its practical application in three main areas: positive emotions, positive individual traits, and positive institutions. This course also presents practical ways to promote and maintain well-being and happiness across all aspects of one's life. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 312 | Children and War | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course is intended to help students understand the consequences of war and conflict on children's mental health and well-being. The course will examine a variety of effects, emphasizing posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and other psychological conditions that result from war. The course will empower students with techniques for working with children affected by war. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 313 | Adolescent Psychology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course is designed to examine adolescents' physical, cognitive, social, and moral development within the family, among peers, at school, at work, and in the media. It discusses major theories, methods of studying adolescents, adolescent development, and contemporary adolescent issues and concerns. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 400 | Conflict Transformation | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course explores practical theories for understanding congregational conflict and various perspectives on conflict transformation. Students will reflect on their styles of dealing with conflict and learn new ways of responding. They will explore practices of dialogue and mediation to address conflict in interpersonal, small-group, and congregational settings, developing an approach to navigating inevitable differences and change. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 401 | Emotional Intelligence | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Intelligence quotient (IQ) gets you hired, but emotional quotient (EQ) gets you promoted". This course explores basic concepts of emotional intelligence and its application to education, the workplace, and personal psychological adjustment. It will offer useful lessons through practical exercises, games, audiovisual tools, case studies, and classroom interaction, providing a roadmap for fostering emotional intelligence in the college and office to achieve health, happiness, and optimal performance at work. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 410 | Abnormal Psychology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| An introduction to the theories of abnormal behaviors, including addiction and substance abuse, bipolar disorder, eating disorders, depression, obsessive-compulsive behaviors, phobias, schizophrenia, and sexual disorders. Students will consider the theoretical implications and treatments for various abnormal behaviors. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| PSYC 480 | Special Topics in Psychology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course provides an in-depth look at selected issues in psychology and individual psychology. Current psychology-related issues are thoroughly explored through readings, research, discussion, and guest lectures. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. | | |

| SOCI 210 | Research Methods in the Social Sciences | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course is designed for psychology, sociology, communications, and other social sciences students. It introduces them to advanced research design and methodology, including statistical analysis. Prerequisite: MATH 220. | | |

| SOCI 301 | Introduction to Sociology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course explores a variety of sociological theories and approaches to understanding society. The student will learn about human social life, groups, and societies, and be helped to detect the social influences shaping our lives. The approach used in this course is a self-exploratory process that develops individual and social awareness. A secondary objective is to discuss methods common to sociology, conflict theory, symbolic interactionism, and feminism. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 302 | Political Sociology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course examines the social issues surrounding the historical and contemporary evolution of various political ideologies. It aims to develop students' understanding of the social bases of politics and political ideologies, as well as recent changes in the socio-political world. Different economic and political philosophies are considered, and their effects on the fate of nations and their citizens are detected. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 304 | Introduction to Educational Sociology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course introduces the study of sociological concepts as they apply to the institution of education. Students will examine issues of race, class, status, poverty, and bureaucracy in the educational setting. They will also examine current perspectives and research about the social aspects of the learning process. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 310 | Intercultural Communication | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course deals with cultural issues like cultural awareness, enculturation, acculturation, and culture shock. It involves hands-on activities to promote cultural awareness and equip students with skills for dealing with people from diverse cultural backgrounds. It includes team-oriented research and presentation that reflects all the | | |

| |
|---|
| cultural aspects and some minute details of the culture they choose to work on. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. |

| SOCI 313 | Interpersonal Communication | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Students in this course examine communication theory and case studies to gain insight into the factors that affect human communications. It aims to improve students' communication skills and equip them with techniques to enhance the quality of their relationships. The course also offers strategies for managing interpersonal conflicts. Co-requisite: ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 340 | Arab Culture and Society | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course examines contemporary Arab society, considering its social structures and groups, cultural patterns, and other aspects. Students consider current issues related to Arab culture and society. Co-requisite ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 410 | Culture and Identity | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This course analyzes the role of culture in an individual's sense of identity, emphasizing how it manifests in the Middle East. Co-requisite ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 420 | Social Inequalities | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| The course addresses class, status, and gender inequalities, examining how they affect individuals and society. Co-requisite ENGL 210. | | |

| SOCI 480 | Special Topics in Sociology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| This senior course provides an in-depth look at selected issues in sociology and society. Through readings, research, discussion, and guest lectures, current issues in sociology are thoroughly explored. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. | | |

Natural Science and Technology Electives

Descriptions of elective courses that may be chosen to satisfy the Natural Sciences domain are given below.

| BIOL 210 | Human Anatomy and Physiology and Lab | 3(2, 2) |
|---|---|---|
| A general overview covers the structure, function, physiology, and anatomy of the human body systems. These include cardiovascular, central nervous, respiratory, urinary, digestive, immune, and musculoskeletal systems. The course also offers a set of experiments that deal with basic biological processes and advanced biological assessments. Prerequisite: None. | | |

| BIOL 211 | General Biology | 3(3,0) |
|---|---|---|
| Topics covered are small/large molecules, cell organization, membranes, energy, enzymes and catalysts, basic cell functions, and biological control systems. | | |